at John Wanamaker's.

The certainty that besides numerous bargains daily spread on the counters the Big Store is now known to fix the Market Prices of all the things dealt in, settles exclusively that it is the BEST PLACE FOR STRANGERS to deal.

Those who do not care to stop over night at a hotel, can check bags, coats, umbrellas and packages at the store door, and can get lunch in the building.

The few items below show how things are going just now.

Send postal card for samples.

BENSON'S CAPSINE POROUS PLASTER.

THAT SETTLES IT.

Brought into Competition with the World, the Best Carries Off the Honors.

At the great Centennial Exhibition of 1876, the leading bructs of all the branches of the World's Industry were assembled at Philadelphia. To carry off a prize in the face of that tremendous competition was a task of no ordinary difficulty. Inventions and preparations for the alleviation of pain and the cure of disease were present in the greatest possible variety, representing the skill and the profound study of the age, and it may be of vital importance to you, personally, to know that the highest and only medal given to rubber Porous Plasters, was awarded to the manufacturer of BENSON'S CAPSINE POROUS PLASTER, by the following jury:

DR. WM. ROTH, Surgeon-General, Prussian Army, D. C.

J. H. THOMPSON, A. M., M. D., Washington, D. C.

C. B. WHITE, M. D., New Orleans.

ERNEST FLEISCH, M. D., Austria.

The decision was afterwards confirmed by the medical jury at the last Paris Exposition. Knowing the value of such high and unbiased testimony, the medical profession, both in the United States and in Europe, quickly threw aside the old, slow-acting plasters they had been using, and adopted Benson's in their regular practice. That physicians and surgeons of the broadest reputation did this, distinctly proves the intrinsic merit of the article.

It is no more than just to add that the average physician of to-day is not dominated by the theories of his predecessors, but is a practical and modified the success of his predecessors of not more than twenty-five years ago. He accepts hints from all quarters and endorses the best material and employ only the best mechanics. For quality of work our prices are the cheapest in the city. We buy for cash and sell on the most reasonable terms. Give us a call. All work warranted. Repairs promptly attended to. One set of workmen especially employed for that purpose.

MARYLAND MORMONS.

ON THE DEER CREEK HOUSE.

Revival of Mormonism—Freaking Joseph Smith's Revelation, and Repeating the Polygamists.

After a lapse of thirty years Harford county, Md., has a return of Mormonism, and a number of its citizens are not a little excited at its reappearance. It is thought that the ideas of that sect have been working in that section of the community for several years, but the first public meeting since the revival of the doctrine took place on Tuesday three weeks ago. The second public meeting was held on May 6. Both these meetings were held at the house of Joseph Eckert, a shoemaker and a farmer, residing near the Rocks of Deer creek, on the southeast side of the Rocks. There was no meeting, but the subject was the topic of general conversation all over the meeting. The sect is known as the United Brethren of the Latter Day Saints. At the last meeting between 60 and 100 persons were present, the males outnumbering the females 3 or 4 to 1.

The meeting was organized by Joshua Fowler, a farmer, residing in the immediate neighborhood on a farm of about 80 acres belonging to his mother. He is said to be an intelligent man, though not well educated. He was raised in Philadelphia, and went to Harford county eight or nine years ago. His mother at that time was housekeeper for the late E. Stanley Rogers, at Rocks of Deer Creek. He married a Miss Matthews, of Fawn Grove, York county, Pa., a daughter of Dr. Matthews, who formerly lived in Harford county, and was a Mormon preacher. This Dr. Matthews kept a store at Deer Park, fifth district, Harford county. He preached the Mormon doctrine in Harford county until he became unpopular and ruined his business. Fowler by marrying this daughter of Dr. Matthews is said to have become charged with Matthews' Mormon notions. Fowler is about twenty-five years of age, slim and sandy haired. He is plain in dress, fair in manners, and of good address, and if he had ordinary talents would be a good speaker. In opening the meeting he did not state its object. He said that he ought to be at home, as his wife was sick, but Almighty God had relieved him of the charge and sent his wife's sister down to take care of her while he came to the meeting. Those present he said, were not like the Mormons of Utah, but were opposed to polygamy. He belonged, he said, to the original Mormon church, not to Brigham Young's part of it, and was a follower of Smith. He introduced his brother-in-law, Monteville O. Matthews, of New Park, York county, Pa., as the regular Mormon preacher. Matthews lives near Fawn Grove, Pa., near the Maryland line, is a clock mender by trade, and is about forty years of age. Though he has little education, he has a forcible way of speaking. Matthews prayed before he began his sermon. He preached the divine institution of the Mormon church of the prophet Joseph Smith, but repudiated the church of Utah, which he has departed from the true faith in engraving polygamy upon the original Mormon doctrine. In fact, the Harford county Mormons appear to be a small fragment of a body which is quite numerous in Iowa and Illinois. A design for the stained window is by Dr. Herbert H. D. Pierce; and in its general composition, and particularly in its scheme of color, it reminds one of certain works of Fra Angelico. The architect is Mr. J. H. French. Mr. Gould has not yet chosen his particular niche.

WOMAN'S FRIEND.

Having been troubled for many years with kidney disease, with severe pains in my back and limbs, and a general debility, I was advised to try your medicine. I procured a bottle for treatment, which I did on the advice of a friend, but found no relief, at least only a temporary one, and I was advised to try your medicine. I procured a bottle of your medicine, and I found it to be a most valuable remedy. I had been troubled for many years with kidney disease, and I had been advised to try your medicine. A MILLIONAIRE'S LUXURY.

How Prince Vanderbilt Will Travel
The most elegant and complete coach that was ever constructed at the car shops of the New York Central & Hudson River railroad company, at West Albany, was built lately for the use of William K. Vanderbilt, at a cost of $25,000, from plans prepared under his personal supervision. The frame work of the coach, the body of which is 60 feet long and 6 feet 8 inches wide, is of choice oak, and is mounted on the floor of the coach, making handsome panels, are let down at night and furnish sleeping accommodations for sixteen persons. Next comes the kitchen, with range and cooking utensils complete, and a commodious cupboard with an ingenious arrangement for holding dishes in place. Overhead is a water tank with a capacity of 200 gallons. Across the hall is a stove room and a sleeping room for the porter, also a handsomely equipped toilet room.

Following along the hall about the center of the car are two bed rooms, each seven and a half feet wide and six and a half feet long. They are supplied with stationary bedssteads of mahogany, beautiful plate glass mirrors, while connected with both compartments is a toilet and bathing room, with all modern conveniences, including a shower bath. Under each bedstead are drawers for clothing, and in the hallway, just outside, is a polished marble washstand. The parlor adjoins the sleeping rooms and will be furnished in the most elaborate style of art. The windows are all of plate glass, and at the ends of the coach the glass in the doors and windows extends almost to the floor. Ice tanks and coal bunkers are set in the floor, as is also a receptacle for tools, which will be at hand in case of accident. The platforms are furnished with gates at the sides and ends, and covers can be lowered over the steps, making the platform the full width of the car. The steps are jointed and can be folded out of the way. A new style of Baker heater is suspended beneath the coach to supply the heat pipes with which the coach is provided. The Washington automatic air brake and the Miller coupling are used.

A Marvellous Invention.
New applications of electricity multiply of late years. Dr. Guidah, of Victoria, claims to have so far perfected an instrument called the electroscope as to be able to transmit by electricity vibrations of light, and thereby to reproduce scenes to the eye from a distance many times beyond the range of human vision. According to the London papers, a trial of this instrument took place recently at Melbourne, in the presence of scientific and public men.

"Sitting in a dark room, they saw projected on a large disk of white burnished metal the race course at Flemington, with its myriad of active beings. Minute details stood out with perfect fidelity to the original, and as they looked at the wonderful picture through binocular glasses it was difficult to imagine that they were not actually on the course itself and moving among those actions they could so completely scan."

It is to be hoped, says the New York Sun, that this wonderful invention will be exhibited at the Electrical congress in Vienna the present summer, in order that its capabilities may be made widely known and its benefits promptly reaped. Already the highest reach of imagination in the age of science is overtopped by the realities of modern science. It seemed, when the magnetic telegraph enabled men to communicate instantly, though scores of miles apart, that no more could be added to that achievement. But they already hear each other's voices through the telephone, and now they can see each other with the electrocope.

Mr. Jay Gould's Mausoleum.

N. Y. Series.
It is well known that Mr. Jay Gould takes stock in the beautiful doctrine of immortality. He is a Christian with neo-Platonist leanings. As such he cherishes in a peculiar degree the sentiment which requires that the final resting place of the body should be made an agreeable subject of contemplation to the living soul. Accordingly, while other rich men have been putting up gaudy palaces in which to enjoy this life, Mr. Gould has been engaged in planning the abode in which his body will remain when he is done with it. It is styled in antia; that is, it has columns in front only, and the side walls are carried forward to help with the columns in forming the vestibule or pronaos. Engaged pillars with Ionic capitals are built into the side and rear walls. Being about thirty feet long and wide in proportion, with a flight of steps in front, it will be exteriorly, the handsomest edifice of its kind in Greenwood cemetery, if not in America.

The interior is divided into two long blocks of arcosolia, the openings of which will be sealed up as they are filled, and a narrow passage between. At the end of the passage there is to be a fine stained glass window, in which a crowd of angels and saints are represented singing. The interior roof of this part of the temple will be formed of bronze rafters, with panels of glass mosaic in classic designs between. Similar panels will occupy the triangular spaces above the door to the vestibule. A design for the stained window is by Dr. Herbert H. D. Pierce; and in its general composition, and particularly in its scheme of color, it reminds one of certain works of Fra Angelico. The architect is Mr. J. H. French. Mr. Gould has not yet chosen his particular niche.
